The University of Bolton, Manchester (UOBM) is an exciting new higher education provider in the heart of Manchester, with a focus on high quality teaching and assessment, and an inclusive, business-like culture. We are as much a leadership school as a business school. As we launch our range of undergraduate courses, we are looking to recruit high quality, highly motivated lecturers with a strong background in practice to match their academic qualifications.

We are looking for lecturers in general business with utility across a range of key business disciplines such as Human Resource Management, Marketing, Operations, etc. We are especially interested in receiving applications from those from industry and commerce looking to start a new career in higher education. Our ideal candidates will have deep knowledge of the wider business environment, be high-energy, and will be outstanding lecturers. They will be passionate about improving the life-chances of our students, and have a deep interest in their business specialisms.

Successful candidates will work from our building in Manchester. All staff are required to teach face-to-face, but may occasionally be required to teach online, so familiarity with online delivery, and Zoom in particular, will be an advantage.

Salaries are competitive and based on candidates' qualifications, experience, and utility. Fellowship of the HEA or an undertaking to achieving this will also be an advantage. You will be qualified to Bachelor's degree level as a minimum, and ideally to Postgraduate level.
